Fine given suspended sentence after manslaughter plea entered

By CAROLE LANGE

Jimmy Ray Fine, 39, received a 10 year suspended sentence. five years probation, and a $2,500 fine after pleading guilty Tuesday to a reduced charge of manslaughter in the December, 1974, shooting death of his wife, Sharon, at their Waveland home.

Fine, who now lives in Arley, Ala. with his parents; Mr. and Mrs. Emery G. Fine, stood trial for murder in connection with the case during the October term of circuit court, however, a mistrial was declared after Fine became ill and was unable to testify.

District Attorney Albert Necaise, in asking the court for the reduced charge, said he did so "only at the request of Mrs. Fine's parents and Fine's eldest children." However, he refused to recommend a sentence for the defendant.

In announcing the directed verdict, Judge Leslie B. Grant said he felt the crime was "one of passion committed while the defendant had been drinking." He said he had been in formed by Fine's eldest children, James: 18, and Ramona, 17, that their father had ceased drinking "and begun living a good Christian life.

Necaise said the request for a reduced charge came as a "complete surprise" to him: "T came to court --ready for trial," he said, "But I had to abide by the family's wishes."

According to Grant's ruling, Fine will return to Alabama where he will be under the jurisdiction of the Jasper parole and probation board. He is employed at a service station in Arley. All of Fine's children were present for proceedings Tuesday. Following the session; they were auxious to return to their Gulfport motel "for swimming and sunbathing," according to one family member.

Fine said afterwards he felt the sentence was a fair one and said he planned to return to Arley "and get on with living again." "Fieel like this has lasted a lifetime," he added while hugging his daughters.

Rent strike raised

Project tenants air grievances

Rev. James Orange, Task Force Director, Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Atlanta, led a housing project tenant delegation to a session Tuesday morning at Bay St. Louis City-Hall.

Orange said he had been charged by the tenants to speak on their behalf and cited several areas of tenant complaint.

Some confusion arose when city commissioners, who had agreed to the session, realized that apparently the majority of complainants came from the Waveland project and therefore were raising sissues beyond their

Further, later determination revealed that a standard grievance procedure was in existence with all tenants being able to file with the housing authority for hearing.

Three main areas of complaint advanced by Orange were rent assessments, collection methods - for both rent and related fees, and maintenance repair charges.

Other issues included alleged eviction of a tenant's son when he passed the age of 18, lack of repairs and improvements, eligibility for housing unit admittance, non interest payment on tenant deposits and non return of

With Rev. Orange was Jim Haynes of Washington, said to represent the National Tenants' Organization.

Haynes told the session his group's interest was seeing that tenants received all their rights.

Mayor Carver asked Haynes if he could not prepare a summary of such rights and supply same to the tenants in the projects saying, "...I'm sure that

New South charter suspended, injunction slapped on sales

An order issued Wednesday by Hancock County Chancery Court Judge Frank Alexander has suspended the charter of incorporation, operating license, and permits of New South Corporation, Jourdan River Shores, a Louisiana-based land development

The order came after a writ-oftemporary injunction was filed by Marshall Bennett of Jackson, state assistant attorney general, Consumer Protection Division.

The injunction asked that New South Corp: be barred from conducting business in Mississippi unless a previously issued Investigative Demand is answered; claimed that the corporation is in violation of the Unfair . and Deceptive Trade Practices Act; called for a halt to the corporation's sale of land in the state; and asked that the company be prohibited from cashing any checks currently in their position, or which they might receive in the future, from state residents.

Bennett said the injunction and subsequent order stemmed from a similar suit filed last month by State General A. F. Summer. That suit charged representatives of Jourdan River Shores with misrepresenting to Mississippians that certain improvements, including the construction of sewer systems, club houses, paved streets, and water canals, would be built on the property to accommodate those who purchased lots on the development.

He said after receiving numerous complaints of the company's failure to execute the promises, the Investigative Demand. which is similar to a subpoena, was sent to Jourdan River Shores requiring that the company substantiate their representations.

payment of rents due until certain of their grievances have been corrected

Mrs. James Wimbish, director, Bay St. Louis Housing Authority, said her rent payments were a little behind last month with about 20 percent of her tenants still to pay.

Housing and Urban Development officials from Jackson met in joint session with the housing authorities of both Bay St. Louis and Waveland, also on Tuesday. Their purpose was to present the results of recently completed management and occupancy reviews, both revealing a satisfactory level of operation. Involved from HHD were, Harold Planter, chief, Housing Programs, Management Branch, and Murray Hastings, Director of Housing,

Management Division Described by Mayor Carver as "...an excellent administrator..." - Mrs. Wimbish was given a clean bill of health by the HUD representatives, as. was Mrs. Karen Lagner, director of the Waveland operation:

Bay St. Louis has 101 units of project housing with Waveland having 75.

Mrs. Wimbish on Tuesday walked through the complainants broached at the city hall session, a meeting to which neither she, Mrs. Ladner, nor any of the board members were invited.

Briefly, on the guestion of eviction for non-payment of the $1.25 monthly maintenance fee, the administrator said there was no record of such happening in Bay St. Louis; on the 18-yearold eviction, she replied that two things remained unsaid. One was that she had been informed the boy in question had ceased to live in the project. The second was that upon finding out to the contrary, it was necessary to include his income into the total income of the family for computation of rent.

Mrs. Wimbish pointed out that the housing projects are operated under HUD guidelines and super/vision, as well as under agreement with the cities

"All we do is monitored, reviewed, and audited by HUD," the housing administrator said.

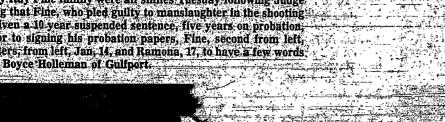

A standard, HUD approved scale of charges for repairs is apparently supplied all tenants and it is to this scale the authority adheres in setting repayment costs

A check with the Bay authority's attorney, Nicholas Haas, revealed that under Mississippi law no interest on deposit needs to be paid.

Again, it was determined that a nonpayment of rent, damage assessment, or other delinquent charge, is made against the deposit should such be necessary at the time of the unit's being varated.

We have had to pay as much as $600 to bring a unit back into shape after a tenant has moved out," Mrs. Wimbish

Of a separate, suggested charge that the Housing Authority of Hancock County has violated every law concerning-the Brooks Amendment and pertaining to public housing in the nation, Haas allowed the amendment had ceased to apply and that rents were now computed under a HUD formula.

the wreck of a Louisville and Nashville Railroad freight train March 30 was the fuel of a major fine on Monday.

A section hand apparently touched off the blaze when, in an attempt to carry out his instructions of cleaning up the wreck site, he set fire to some piles of wood and paper debris alongside the unremoved portion of the wrecked cargo. Plastic in the cargo spill was highly flammable.

Spilled from a demolished piggy-back unit, the plastic was being hauled by L&N to a toy manufacturing concern. E. H. Thomas, News Bureau Manager for L&N at Louisville, Ky., said Wed-

"We were concerned when we heard that children were playing in the plastic," Thomas said. He said L&N had dispatched a suction unit to the scene and it, in turn had moved the vast majority of plastic off the tracks.

"We did not wish to run the risk of getting dirt into the product.

The plastic was going to a toy manufacturer and we did not want to: contaminate it with foreign matter," Thomas explained.

He said the vacculator unit had cleaned up most of the cargo but that the railway would now move to remove

Shoreline Park resident given 3 year sentence

Jimmy Sullivan, 19 of Shoreline Park, was sentenced to serve three years in the state penitentiary at Parchman after he changed his plea to guilty of the forceful rape of a 16-year-old girl last

At the request of defense attorney John Scafidi, Judge Leslie B. Grant extended execution of the sentence until May 1 in order that Sullivan might spend the Easter holidays with his

In other developments in Hancock County Circuit Court, the jury returned a not guilty verdict in the case of Mrs. Helen Krumpa, charged with shoplifting a blouse from the TG&Y in Our Shopping Center:

The case was an appeal from Justice of the Peace Court; and according to William Frishie, attorney for the defense, the appeal was based on lack of jurisdiction in the lower court.

Johnny Lee Terry was given a three year suspended sentence and three years on probation after he pled guilty to the reduced charge of receiving stolen property. He was indicted for burglary by the January grand jury. Brothers Andrew and Leo Moffett co-defendents in the case, received an 18 month suspended sentence and three years on probation after they entered a guilty plea to the reduced charge.

Tax guide available to fishermen

WASHINGTON - Copies of the first issue of an Internal Revenue Service Tax Guide for Commercial Fishermen are available from Congressman Trent Lott (R-Miss.).

Lott said the tax guide is the result of the "productive association" between Sea Grant Advisory Servicepersonnel and IRS staff. Advisory Service specialists and IRS publication specialists jointly developed the tax guide.

"This IRS publication should be a tremendous aid to those fishermen who have encountered difficulty with their tax forms," Lott explained. "It offers specialized instruction, the kind so many fishermen have wanted for so long. I recommend it highly and hope that it proves to be of real assistance."

Fishermen wanting to obtain a copy of IRS Publication 595. "Tax Guide for Commercial Fishermen", may do so by writing to Congressman Trent Lott, 308 Cannon Building, Washington, D.C. 20515.

COUNTRY COMFORT AT A FAIR PRICE

KERSHNER'S COMMENTARY By Dr. Howard E. Kershner

The Social Security Tragedy

We want people, especially old people, to have more. We want our economic activities to be so organized as to produce the maximum amount of goods and services for the American people. In the long run, we believe that Social Security will mean less goods and fewer desirable services. Consider a few salient facts.

In the beginning, the payroll tax was one percent on the first $3,000 that one earned. It has been advanced to 5.8 percent for the employee, and an equal amount from the employer. The taxable wage base has been moved steadily upward from $3,000 to $14,100. The maximum FICA tax (Federal Insurance Contribution Act) paid annually by an individual advanced 107.1 percent between 1955 and 1965, and 374.1 percent between 1965 and 1975. In order to keep the plan solvent, the tax rate and the tax base must rise rapidly as the pay-out under the plan increases with inflation, the upping of benefits, and the increase in the number of beneficiaries.

In 1950, 3.5 million people received $1.02 billion; in 1960, 14.8 million people received $10.8 billion; in 1975, more than 31 million people received about $70 billion. Thus, in 25 years the number of beneficiaries increased ten-fold and the amount dispersed, 70-fold. During the same periodi, the working force increased only 47 percent.

During the current year, payments to beneficiaries are expected to reach $80 billion, an amount in excess of the payroll tax. We shall soon have to begin subsidizing the scheme out of General Revenue.

In 1950, eleven workers supported each person receiving benefits. Today, three workers support each beneficiary. By the end of the century, it is estimated that two workers will be supporting each beneficiary. We are approaching the time when we shall be supporting ourselves and, in addition, an army of bureaucrats engaged in taking money out of one of our pockets, generously paying themselves, and putting what is left back into another one of our pockets. How will we benefit from that process?

- Wouldn't-it be better if we kept our own money, invested it constructively, and prepared to live during our retirement years from the earnings of our invested

The least we could do, it seems to me, to start improving the whole Social Security scheme, would be to allow young workers the option of bei- exemptfrom it if they would set up and maintain heir own investment programs.

Social Security—that it is safe and adequate for their needs in later years—we are doing them incalculable harm. We are encouraging them to neglect to study and to work hard on an investment program that will profitable for them. We are teaching them to depend more and more upon government, to the neglect of their own initiative and self-reliance.

The calamitous nature of Social Security arises from the fact that it is slowly, steadily, and surely decapitalizing our country.

Last year, $70 billion was paid out in Social Security benefits. The money was immediately expended. Had this sum been invested constructively in industry, it would have furnished employment for about 2 million persons. But when paid out and spent for Social Security, it furnished no employment. It did, however, deprive the country of an enormous capital fund of

As more and more enormous sums are transferred from our capital resources to consumption goods, the supply of investment capital will continue to decline, resulting in more and more unemployment. If we did not have Social Security, but each person saved for his own retirement years, the money would flow into savings banks, insurance companies, stocks, bonds, real estate, and business activities, thus furnishing more and more jobs and goods for the people.

As the Social Security tax increases, it will absorb more and more of the money that the people are able to save over and above their living expenses. If it flows into Social Security, it is immediately consumed. If the people were allowed to continue owning it and investing it constructively, it would further build up the capital resources of our country, and enable our people to live better from the earnings of their own savings than they ever can hope to live from Social Security benefits.

Moreover, Social Security spending aggravates inflation, so that greater and greater Social Security payments are needed for our old people to maintain their status. Actually, they can never hope to catch up.

Seen in its true light, therefore, Social Security becomes a vast engine for inflation and decapitalization. It causes the cost of living to rise higher and higher and increases unemployment by converting the capital that could otherwise be invested constructively, and furnish more employment for more people, into consumption goods. When it is consumed, it is gone. It no longer enriches the nation, and no longer supplies jobs for more

What the old people of our country, and all of us in fact, most need, is a stable dollar that will encourage us to save and invest for our own future. Social Security spending makes this all but impossible. Like all other forms of government intervention in the economic activities of the people, it makes it more and more difficult to conquer poverty and disease, to lessen suffering and to provide abundantly for our citizens. Someday the people will awaken to the fact that their leaders have: betrayed them into the loss of the rich heritage their hard-working ancestors accumulated during several generations of freedom. I wouldn't want to be one of those leaders when that time arrives.

News By Joe Pilet

In the early 1800's the turquoise was said to be the most popular gem worn by both ladies and gentlemen.

Today the demand for that stone has increased to the point that Arizona gem dealers say both quantity and quality is: becoming scarce, and therefore more expensive. This semiprecious stone has been mined for centuries. Egyptians mined it as early as four thousand years before Christ was born. In Iran it is the "national gem." In the United States it is found in Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico and Nevada.

The stone is truly fascinating: copper gives it the blue color, iron contributes a greenish tint, and its bulk is hydrous phosphate of aluminum. The stone is opaque, somewhat porous, and fades under strong sunlight. It is also affected by grease, dirt, extreme heat. Indians of the Southwest consider the turquoise as a symbol of wealth as well... as a status symbol. But the true popularity of the turquoise rests in the many legends and superstitions prevalent far and near that attributes all sorts of magical powers to this

Our Mississippi Wagon Train entourage was decked out with turquoise belt buckles, rings, neck-pieces, etc. Did you know legend says a turquol would not only protect the horse's owner from getting tired, but it would also make him sure-footed and assure lack of injury or accident? That's more than health and accident policies

Speaking of medicinal properties this wonder-stone has been recommended for treatment of all diseases of the head and heart. Got a problem with your eyes? Dip the turquoise in water and apply it to the eye. It not only clears the vision, it will cure the cataracts! Night drivers might find this information helpful.

Wonder what time it is: Suspend your turquoise from a strong thread, hold the string between thumb and index finger over the center of a glass. The turquoise will strike the hour not only a symbol of wealth, but it also brings health, good fortune, rain when needed, and possibly freedom from ingress toe-nails. Surely, no other stone in the world figures so largely in endless mythology, legends, and beliefs. It inspires young girls to be good and sincere, it reconciles husbands and wives having family quarrels, it comforts the heart.

These legends were believed by important people of high rank. The kings of Damascus work turquoise stones on neck and hands to keep them from being killed. The Arabian and Persian upper class wore turquoise in the belief it was a protection against drowning, snakes, scorpion stings, etc. Were our forefathers inspired by the turquoise when they pledged their lives, fortune and sacred honor establishing a land of justice and liberty? Our United States has grown prosperous. By comparison we are a healthy and well-fed pation and we have a government concerned with health, education and welfare of our people: Invonder then why throughse is so in demand?

America, the great melting pot of the world, is overflowing - and it's costing us upwares of $16 BH.LION a year in lost jobs and taxes.

That's the view of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, according to a recent article in "U.S. News and World Report", one of the country's leading news magazines. And it's a view shared by a growing number of concerned Americans.

The job outlook in this country is improving each month, but that's little by illegal aliens.

One such bill with those provisions is currently pending in the House Rules Committee, where it was referred by the House Judiciary Committee. H. R. 8713 would amend the Immigration and Nationality Act to make be layful for any person to knowing! employ, continue to employ, or refer for employment any alien in the United States who has not been lawfully admitted for permanent residence. It would, for the first time, establish criminal sanctions against both the employer and the alien.

The Senate Judiciary Committee's

Subcommittee on Immigration and Naturalization held several days of hearings recently and had another scheduled for last week, but no action has resulted from those hearings. Senator Eastland has a bill similar to H. R. 8713.

"In the next three decades, it is expected that new immigrants and their descendents will total 15 million, or 25 percent of the total population increase, Commissioner Leonard F. Chapman Jr. of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service explained in the magazine article.

"Immigration, which represented a major portion of our population growth during the nineteenth and early twentieth century, has now emerged again as a significant factor affecting the number of persons who reside in the United States?" They're coming from everywhere, but the largest number of ILLEGAL aliens can be traced to our friends South of the Border, Mexico. They sneak in by the thousands each year to and other places.

Add the number of illegals from other countries and you can understand the significance of the problem. We're carrying more people on our back than most people realize.

I plan to insist that the Rules Committee bring H. R. 8713 up for consideration as soon as possible. The time has come to put a lid on the melting pot.

Leaders are hard on themselves and easy on others Leaders are positive; affirmative in their actions; and believers in the tested philosophy that man is born to win! They say, and they practice, this philosophy: "What action am I going to take?" instead of, "What's going

Leaders are excellent listeners and understand they're not learning when they're talking. When they're wrong, they're willing to admit it and say,

Leaders are eager to learn and to grow, knowing that when they are uncomfortable, they are really growing. Leaders pace themselves.

Leaders are good communicators, effectively utilizing their four powers of communication: non-verbal, verbal, written, and phone powers. Leaders are respectful to all, learning from each individual. They make promises and commitments and they keep them!

Leaders believe in this statement:

"Customers want their money's worth . . . unless you're thinking of early retirement, you and I better see that they get it!" –Lee A. gacocca President, Ford Motor Co.

Finally, leaders plan purposefully prepare prayerfully proceed positively • pursue persistently.

That's the "8-P Plan" originated by column readers William A. Ward and Dr. Norman Vincent Peale. And the "8-P Plan" really works!

Q. When I bought my straight life insurance policy 16 years; ago, it was for one purpose only to protect my wife and son in the event of my premature death. Now I understand it can help me when I reach retirement.

A; it is the guaranteed cash value feature, which makes your policy the versa-tile tool you refer to. You-can use this cash value when you reach retirement in one of several ways:

You can surrender your policy and take the cash value: in a lump sum or in regular monthly payments. And only your life insurance company can guarantee monthly payments for life no matter how long you live. You can continue your life insurance protection, without having to pay any more premiums, by converting your policy to a lifetime paid-up policy for a reduced amount of insurance, or by converting to "extended" term coverage, which will maintain the same

The next time you wash your hair, winterize your car or wax the floor, odds are you'll be using an item from a growing industry-because the shampoo, antifreeze and floor wax will probably be poured out of a plastic bottle.

Increasingly, manufacturers, and consumers are taking advantage of the plastic arts.

For one thing, they are lightweight and easily handled. For another, the flexibility of plastic containers has made new products

THE BIBLE REVEALS THE CREATOR as "The True and Living God." God is the living God in the sense that He alone has power to create. sustain, impart life, and to "quicken the dead!"

A-few years ago a fuzzyminded college professor in Georgia made news headlines all there was the usual small band of blind followers of the blind parroting these inane words, never really knowing.

Even to repeat the frivolous statement, "God is dead." makes one feel a little silly. While this hedonistic professor and his crowd were bursting their vains trying to be heard, they wanted to sound like people "in the know.22 So-called intellectuals who mouth such idiotic things as "God is dead," only reveals their own spiritual immaturity and instability. Perhaps, the gods they ignorantly serve, are dead. When they speak of a dead god, they speak of their own. Their god was never alive! Such a remark would, of course, be unthinkable to one who knows the True and Living God - Sovereign, Maker and Ruler of the Universe: "For though there be that are called gods, whether in heaven or earth, (as there be gods many, and lords many). But to us there is but one God. (I Cor. 8:5-6).

with the idiotic statement, of the Egyptians; as Josua and property in accordance with the "God is dead?" In no time at told of the "gods, of the terms of said deed of trust for the Amorites," etc., these were purpose of raising the sums due not living Gods. Bran Adds Fiber To Shortcake

Recent research has shown the importance of fiber in the diet. NABISCO 100% Bran-Cereal is an especially good source of food fiber. Of course, bran is good for breakfast, but it can also be used in many recipes. In this shortcake shell, bran adds a delightful, nutty flavor and chewy texture. Fill with colorful, juicy fruits and serve with sour cream saucé.-

FRUIT SHORTCAKE 2/3 dup butter or margarine

I (3-ounce) package cream cheese, softened 3/4 cup granulated sugar

1 tablespoon lemon juice 1-teaspoon grated lemon rind 1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour 1 teaspoon baking powder 1/4 teaspoon salt

2 cups dairy sour cream

3/4 cup NABISCO 100% Bran Cereal Rice or dried beans 1/3 cup apricot preserves 4 cups chilled fruit, well drained

1 teaspoon vanilla extract Grease a 2-quart oblong baking dish. Line with wax paper, allowing paper to extend 1 inch above pan. Grease paper. Beat butter, cream cheese and 1/2 cup sugar until fluffy. Blend in next three ingredients. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; add with bran to cream cheese mixture. Spread evenly on bottom and sides of prepared dish to form a shell. Line with wax paper, pressing carefully into corners. Half fill with rice or beans to hold in shape. Trim paper to within 1 inch of pan. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375°F.) 20 minutes. Carefully lift out paper and rice. Reduce temperature to 3500F. Bake 15 minutes fonger. Cool in pan on wire rack 30 minutes. Lift out and cool completely. Spread bottom with preserves. Fill with fruit. Blend together last three ingredients; serve as sauce with shortcake. Makes 10 servings of about 2 x 1 1/2inch pieces shortcake and 3 tablespoons sauce.

Want to talk longer for less? Getting what you pay for can be difficult during these days of inflated prices. But with long distance working for you, it's possible to get one of today's best bargains. Too good to be true? Not if you remember two facts to guide your long distance calling habits:

-- First, dial all long distance calls the One-Plus* way. It's always the cheapest way to call anytime. -- Second, take advantage of the discount rates. Dial the One-Plus way between 5 p.m. and 11 p.m. Sunday through Friday and you get a 35% discount from the weekday One-Plus rate. And you get a 60% discount from the weekday rate on One-Plus calls dialed on Sunday through Friday nights between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m. and on weekends from 11 p.m. Friday until 5 p.m. Sunday. That's all there is to it. Just call evenings, nights, and weekends the One-

Plus way. You'll get a bargain! * Note: Low One—Plus rates do not apply to person—to—person, coin, hotel—guest, credit card, or collect calls, or to calls charged to another number, because, an operator must assist on such calls. *************

The 1976 educational and fund-raising Crusade of the American Cancer Society began April 1 on a hopeful note: "We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime." When an ACS volunteer visits you with life-saving materials, remem ber that a generous response by an educated donor is the best way to conquer.

Let's all join TOM TRASH and his friend JOHNNY HORIZON during this bicentennial year to pick up and clean up Mississippi. We can all pitch in by resolving

-use litter barrels in parks and picnic area. -buy and use returnable containers.

-get and use a car trash container.

-participate in rocycling paper, glass, and metal. -pick up trash.

"Sorry, wrong number!" I guess we've all heard this from time-sortime, but, hopefully, not very often. Should you reach a wrong number when dialing a long distance call, you don't have to pay for the mistake. Just remember to ask whoever does answer for the area code and the number you reached in error. Then, dial "Operator" and report what happened right away. The operator will have any charge removed for you. Or, if your phone bill shows a charge for a long distance call you didn't make, your local service representative will correct

You're invited...

Christian convert remains Jewish

Rachmiel Silverman, staff evangelist with Jews for Jesus, will be guest speaker at the First Presbyterian Church of Bay St. Louis, Easter night at Silverman will be sharing his experience as a Jew for Jesus, as well asreporting on the work of the Californiabased organization.

Jews For Jesus maintains that Jews can believe in Jesus, and still remain Jews. Silverman comments, "While the majority of Jewish people today don't believe in Jesus, there is a growing number of us who do and want to share the option with all who are interested." Recent surveys show that over 14,000 Jews have come to Christ between 1968 and 1973.

Silverman, 28, is from the Bronx, New York. He grew up in a typical Jewish home and was bar mitzyah (confirmed) in the synagogue at the age of 13. He was accepted to the High School of Art and Design in New York City where he studied photography and upon graduation, took an apprentice position with a New York) photographer.

Wanting to continue his education, h left for Louisiana two years later to study drama and art at Northeastern Louisiana University. He became heavily involved in drugs at that time and not long after receiving his bachelor's degree from that university, he was arrested and sentenced to three years at hard labor in a Louisiana elegant doors at 6153 St. Charles Avenue will open to the public. As the second Decorators' Show House. sponsored by the Junior League of New Orleans, Inc., the mansion will remain open through May 16.

This home of Dr. and Mrs. Jay Seastrunk typifies turn-ofthe-century opulence on the Avenue. Its imposing sandstone facade reflects the grandiose scale and formality of the second Renaissance Revival style, so popular in the early decades of this century. Well-known New Orleans architect Emile Weil provided the designs for the house, built for William Adler between 1901 and 1908.

Inside, the house adapts classical structure to the demands of contemporary living. Natural wood wainscoting blends into coffered ceilings in large airy rooms. Against this backdrop 25 of the city's leading interior decorators and landscape architects have created a variety of modern as well as traditional settings. A few of the special features of this year's Show House will be handmade carpets, Persian tapestries, textile sculpture,

Beginning April 24 the oriental porcelain, antique paintings and pastels, and made furniture and chandeliers.

Changes made in education progress reports

Veterans Addrawing VA educational benefits were attending classes and progressing satisfactorily, until recent newspaper publicity cited. numerous cases throughout the country indicating

As a result, recent changes in VA regulations have established a requirement that all schools set standards of progress and submit these standards to the State approving agency for approval.

According to the VA's DVB Circular 20-75-84, "The State approving agency will develop broad minimum standards and will direct the schools to develop their own specific standards of progress within the framework established by the State approving agency." Other excerpts from the DVB circular include the following:

If a school permits a student to continue after determining progress is unsatisfactory, the school is required to report to VA the date the approved standards were not met, Student will not be authorized educational benefits unless a VA counseling psychologist approves. Schools must have capability to promptly report unsatisfactory progress, drops, withdrawals and unscheduled interruptions.

The State approving agency on supervisory visits and the VA on compliance visits will.

Keep on shucking

Oysters, Oysters

By MIKE FLYNN

You either like oysters a lot or you can't stand the sight of them. Either you can eat raw oysters by the pint or the sight of one raw oyster on the half shell makes you a little weak in the stomach.

Veteran oyster eaters find it hard to believe that anyone who has actually eater a good raw oyster could fail to appreciate its fine texture and pleasing

Those people who will not or cannot eat oysters (and there are those who find it physically impossible to swallow a raw oyster) find it equally as hard to believe anybody could eat, "one of those slimy things cooked, let alone

But oyster eaters don't lose too much sleep worrying about people with weak stomachs. Even though they hate to see their friends missing out on one of the best delicacies the sea has to offer, they take comfort in knowing that there are just that many more oysters for them to

The enthusiastic oyster fan sometimes finds it cheaper to buy oysters still in the shell and to shuck them at home. Even the most experienced oyster shucker will admit that this is not without its drawbacks. A careful examination of the hands of any oyster shucker will probably reveal a few scars received in the battle to remove a stubborn oyster from its shell.

Many people regard oyster shucking as a social affair to be shared with some good friends and a few cold beers. But even they will admit a preference for oysters that have been shucked by somebody else.

Most of the processed oysters in thisarea are shucked at Ladner's processing plant in Pass Christian. A visit to the plant would impress even the most skilled amateur oyster shucker.

The shuckers at the Pass Christian facility shuck more oysters than can be consumed by the local markets and provide more than enough oysters to last through the off season months.

The local market represents a small portion of the total market. The processed oysters are sold to distributors who in turn sell them to other wholesalers, restaurant chains, and retailers. Some of the oysters end up as far away as California.

The plant processes about 200 sacks on a good day and operates almost year round. Many people think that you can only get fresh oysters during the Rmonths, that is the months from September to April. This was true in the days of poor refrigeration but is no longer true.

The winter months are still the most productive months and produce the healthiest oysters. But it is possible and profitable to harvest oysters all year.

The shuckers vary in the amount of oysters they can shuck in an hour but the more experienced shuckers can put out two gallons in an hour. This represents about 500 oysters and anybody who shucks oysters can appreciate that number.

The shuckers at the Pass Christian plant vary in age. Some are as young as 10-years-old while the oldest are middle aged. Most of the shuckers are in their late teens and early twenties.

Workers are paid by production and not by the hour, so a man is paid for the amount of oysters shucked and not for the time it takes him to do it.

The shucker gets $3 or $3.50 a gallon depending on whether he is a regular worker or not. Regular workers are expected to yield 10 gallons a day.

A good shucker can push himself and make as much as $50 dollars in a good day. A more realistic figure would be $35 which would represent a 10 gallon

Many of the shuckers have other jobs besides shucking. In addition, a lot of the shuckers are students and only shuck on weekends or in the summer. You might think that after looking at gallons and gallons of oysters day after day it might ruin your appetite for them but shuckers are just like anybody else...they either love oysters or they hate them.

Some of the shuckers say they could shuck all day and eat all day while others say they never eat oysters.

Ladner's get their oysters from Captain Nolan Vinet, a Cajun fisherman from Golden Meadow, Louisiana who fishes the reefs of Southeast Vinet is a conservationist as well as a fisherman and is concerned about some of the manmade problems that are damaging the oyster industry.

The construction of reservoirs and canals upset the balance of fresh water in the oyster beds allowing the conch population to increase. Conch are spiral-shelled mollusks that eat oysters.

The need for canals and reservoirs is understandable, but there are other factors endangering the future of oystering. One of these is the length of the season:

Vinet says the oysters, "must have time to come back..if a man can't make his season in eight months he should get out of the business," says Vinet.

This year the oyster season was extended to May 20 as opposed to the usual April 15 closing date that this will be bad for the industry and that a three month closed season is not enough.

One thing that has been done to overcome this problem is the use of cultivated beds. These beds can be fished all year round but are seeded and cared for in such a way as to avoid overfishing.

The future of oystering and of fishing in general depends upon the intelligent use of our natural resources. Sensible management and the use of cultivated reefs will insure oyster lovers that they will still be able to enjoy that delicacy years from now.

The POWER of 1776-1976 PRINT in AMERICAN HISTORY

This article is adapted from a program of historical monographs created by the St. Regis Paper Company in an effort to rededicate our heritage and renew our pride in our country's achievements.

Ever since the invention of movable type, the press seems to have been almost as important a part of medicine as the scalpel, as American medical history demonstrates.

In colonial America, doctors often received their medical knowledge from imported European texts, from reprinted medical books such as Domestic Medicine by Dr. William Buchan and from broadsides distributed in the streets.

Many early Americans were their own physicians, too, getting their information from a book compiled hy Nicholas Culpeper that was a mixture of herbal lore, astrology and classical

As the colonies attained greater economic and intellectual maturity, formal medical schools were founded, the first in 1765. Their students had to read imported texts and write theses. A growing medical press quickly reflected this growth of formal education.

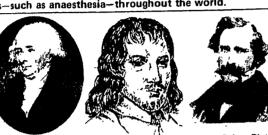

As medical societies began to form in the early 1800's, medical journals began to be published and two of them are still printed today. The contents of these periodicals dispel any thought that America was isolated intellectually, from the rest of the world. America's first contributions to the world's medical community were carried in our flourishing publications. One of these contributions came addicted to the press.
